DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kressin et al. [US. 5,617,527].

As to claims 1, 8, 12 and 22, Kressin et al. discloses a computer implemented method and corresponding apparatus for generating a graphical interface for one or more software applications having a command line interface comprising the steps/means for querying a user to information provided by each of the software applications (column 3, line 62 through column 4, line 8); generating a graphical user interface based on the specified properties for each of the software application (column 4, lines 22-30 and column 4, line 63 through column 5, line 7); and the graphical user interface identifying each of said software applications and allowing a selected one of said software applications to be accessed (column 4, lines

As to claims 2 and 13, Kressin et al. teach the properties of each option group including an indication of whether the various options within an option group can be used together (column 4, lines 8-30).

As to claims 3 and 14, Kressin et al. teach an indication of any input file requirements (column 4, lines 8-30, plurality of buttons).

As to claims 4 and 15, Kressin et al. also teach a name of a corresponding software application. It was inherent each of the software application in the computer system would have a corresponding name.

As to claims 5 and 16, Kressin et al. show a location of a corresponding software application. It was inherent that each of the software applications in the computer system would have a corresponding location.

As to claims 6 and 17, Kressin et al. also show the graphical user interface allowing a client to access a selected software application without regard to a location of said selected software application (column 4, line 56 through column 5, line 7).

As to claims 7 and 18, Kressin et al. provide the graphical user interface presenting a client with only valid options for a selected software application (column 6, lines 1-8).

As to claims 9 and 19, Kressin et al. also provide a central server interacting with one or more clients and a remote server where said selected software application is located (column 6, lines 7-20).

Art Unit: 2179

As to claims 10 and 20, Kressin et al. demonstrate the central server interacting with the one or more clients and server using a remote server script (column 6, lines 7-20).

As to claims 11 and 21, Kressin et al. also demonstrate the remote server script provides any necessary input files to said remote server, initiates the execution of said selected software application on said remote server and returns any results to said client (column 5, line 20 through column 6, lines 20).
